September 2021

Dear Mr Douglas,

This year, thanks to your support, we have been able to stay true to King's mission through a period of unprecedented challenges and opportunities.

For almost 200 years, our work has been to teach exceptional students to become critical thinkers and changemakers within society, to remain at the cutting edge of impactful research and to lead and change the world through service. Our ethos has always been to serve our communities, at a local and global level. With your support we have been able to continue embodying this ethos in the following ways:

- Students are at the very heart of our culture. Your support has helped shape a student experience that is not just discipline-specific, but also prepares our students to thrive in an ever-changing and global society.
- World-class research is fundamental to King's and how we channel our creativity to further knowledge and understanding, challenge convention and deliver impact. Our aim is to always deliver research to inform and innovate and much of our researchers' success is thanks to you and your support.
- Service is how King's many communities demonstrate their commitment to society. Your generosity has enabled us to realise our core ethos of trying to make a better world. Thanks to you, we're able to put the needs of others first and embed service to society within the educational experience.

Within these pages, you'll read examples of how donors like you are making it possible for us to realise King's mission and to embody these three core aspects of our ethos. You'll also see how that ethos as extended to King's communities' efforts to combat the COVID-19 pandemic, made possible only through generous supporters such as yourself.

King's students, alumni and researchers are distinguished internationally not just by their knowledge but by their wisdom, character, service ethic and global mindset. This is our greatest achievement, and it would not be possible without you.

Thank you again, for helping us to continue to make the world a better place, particularly in another year that has presented us all with a mix of challenges and opportunities.

Yours sincerely,
